

I presently am on the "Do Not Call List". This has significantly cut-down on the annoying telemarketing calls I have been subjected to prior to being placed on this list. I would also like to have the nonprofit organizations be part of the "Do Not Call List" as I have received as many as three in a single evening. Being taxed to death as a New Jersey resident, certainly there is not a single dime left to donate to any organization whether I want to or not. I should also mention that not only is there no money in my budget to make a donation, it is common knowledge that these annoying, begging callers are largely illegal or a very small percent of your donation actually goes to the cause they are representing. I wholeheartedly support the "No Call List."
